Q: How to insert HTML into a text file from a webpage? I have been tasked with writing a python program that will go through a website, scan it for specific keywords, and extract all the texts that are between the following tags: .... Here's the thing, I can't find a way to read the HTML text out of the website in any way. I would need to extract the whole HTML text, because I need to count and print the number of tags that have a specific class. How should I approach this? A: The HTML of the webpages is not really a text file. Each line is a tag, that is HTML code. If
